CEO MESSAGE

Summer is finally here! For some it is a time of year to get out and enjoy the sunshine, and others may prefer to stay in and appreciate the luxury of air conditioning. One thing that is great about our industry is that network marketing can be done either way. Whether you are hand-delivering products to your neighbors or finding personal development on a Zoom meeting, this business can be done anywhere and by anyone.

I personally love a warmer climate like we have at our global headquarters in Kedah, Malaysia. In California, where it is not nearly as humid, our Gano Excel USA team has been shipping out more orders daily to meet the new demand in home delivery. Both locations have employees working hard to serve and support your business so that you can stay open and earn with the Gano Excel opportunity.

Isn't it amazing how much you can get done from the comfort of your home? This year we have even brought meetings and events into your home office or living room. You can work at home, and yet still feel connected to others using social media, video calls and more.

Let me encourage you to use these tools and stay in touch with your team while physical distancing remains in place. Words can be incredibly powerful and using them to positively inspire and motivate your team will help them focus on all the great business they can still do. It is a way to help their business grow, and in doing so help your own.

Summertime is a great time to get things done. You may have been spending more time at home than usual, but don't let that time go to waste. Reach out with a word of encouragement to others, and tell prospects about the great opportunity you have, even in times such as this, to earn income with Gano Excel by sharing amazing wellness products enriched with Ganoderma lucidum.

If you could use some extra motivation yourself, attend one of our Virtual Super Saturdays or sit in on another leader's Virtual Leadership Meeting. Our Field Relations Team has done a great job setting up 15 meetings a week so that there is sure to be one that fits into your schedule. Let someone speak those powerful words to you and be revitalized to take on the summer season with gusto.

Sincerely,

Mr. Ooi Chin Aik,
Chief Executive Officer, Gano Excel | North America

ALON MATAS SEES GROWTH OPPORTUNITY IN ONLINE COUNSELING

Gano Excel's founder, Mr. Leow Soon Seng, believes in the power of sharing. People talking with people is an essential part of life. Even during times where social gatherings are limited, people will find ways to share with others. It is the reason he founded Gano Excel using a business model built upon sharing. Harnessing the power of network marketing has allowed GE to expand operations to 65 countries around the world and enrich millions of lives with the health of Ganoderma. It is based on the belief that an excellent product speaks for itself so strongly, that those who are products of the product cannot help but talk about it with others.

Mr. Leow is not alone. Many CEOs understand the power that words can have on people. In fact, one entrepreneur believed in the healing power of words so much that he founded a company that allows people that very opportunity. It is estimated that 25 percent of people need mental health support, but nearly half of them are not reaching out for the help they need because of the cost, stigma, inconvenience or stress. After experiencing this firsthand, Alon Matas decided to build a company that would use technology to bring therapy services to these individuals.

Matas founded BetterHelp in 2013 as a way to connect people with licensed therapists in a virtual setting. Clients and therapists can use calls, messages and video to conduct the therapy sessions. Clients pay a monthly fee which covers the payment to the therapists and provides BetterHelp with the profit they need to stay in business. Matas says in interviews that he didn't set out to reform therapy itself, but only the way it was delivered. "We're trying to do the tried-and-true practice of therapy and make it more accessible, more convenient [and] more affordable, but use established methods." In fact, a recent study by the Berkeley Well Being Institute found BetterHelp clients see results comparable to, or in some cases better than face-to-face clients.

Upon signing up, clients fill out a questionnaire that matches them with a therapist taking into consideration preferences such as gender, faith and orientation. After the initial match, the client is able to switch counselors in order to find the best fit for them. This enables someone to get connected with a therapist quicker than months of in-person appointments and searching. Providing this access to a qualified therapist is the main target of the company. Matas says replacing the therapist with an app or bot misses the entire point of therapy, which is to allow a person to connect and communicate with another person.

Being a completely virtual business, BetterHelp is able to make therapy available to areas that are remote or where cultural influences suppress or stigmatize access. It provides a solution to Americans who work overseas for U.S. companies, where mental health professionals are not available. It has grown to become the world's largest online therapy site with half a million clients in 168 countries and 4,000 licensed counselors, all of whom are independent contractors.

Matas says that the growth potential is still high because it is a new group of people the service is reaching. The company has seen great success, marking more than $60 million in revenue each of the past two years. "I really feel lucky that we're able to do something that touches people's lives so directly, does social good and makes a good profit." The company has amassed more than 19,000 testimonials from people who are thankful for how BetterHelp has changed their lives. It is a testimony to the power that connecting others can have on the mind and soul of a person. It shows how important it can be to SHARE.

WAYS TO EARN: TYPES OF VOLUME

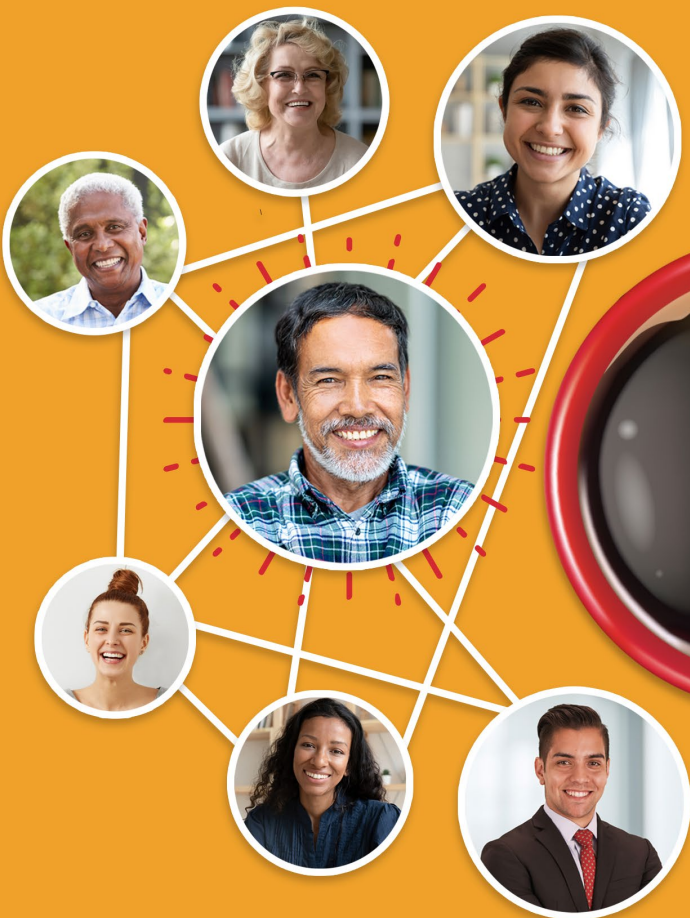

Personal and Commissionable Volume

Let's take a moment and talk about the two basic types of volume. Volume is the value of product that you, your retail customers, or your Binary Organization purchases from Gano Excel. All you need to remember is who purchased it. Personal Volume comes from product you or your retail customers purchase. Commissionable Volume comes from Affiliates in your Binary Organization.

So first, Personal Volume. Every time you or one of your customers uses your Affiliate ID to purchase GanoCafé or GanoDaily products, you generate PV. You can use PV to stay Active with Gano Excel, qualify for ranks and bonuses, and even earn the amazing Volume Order Rebate. Each purchase's PV stays on your account for 1 month before it expires, so it is important to have regular or recurring purchases by you or your retail customers. The best way to accomplish this is AutoShip.

Commissionable Volume comes from product that Affiliates in your Binary Organization purchase and is calculated automatically by Gano Excel. Commissionable Volume equals 80% of the PV generated by each purchase. So, if an Affiliate on your right leg purchases 100 PV, you generate 80 CV. The Group Commissionable Volume is simply the sum of all the CV you generate from your Binary Organization. It is calculated weekly for your weekly commissions payout, and is divided into your left leg GCV and your right leg GCV.

5 REASONS TO GET OUTSIDE

Summertime beckons people all around the world to get outside and enjoy the abundance of sunlight and the sights and sounds of nature. It's no surprise that a breath of fresh air can work wonders on your well-being. Did you know that there are over a dozen research-backed health benefits to spending time outside, even as little as 5 minutes outdoors a day? While some places may continue to limit time spent outside of the home, here are 5 ways getting out can improve your health with less than 30 minutes a day.

1. Good for Your Eyes

People may find that spending time outdoors can alleviate their blurred and double vision, red eyes, and headaches that come from spending too much time in front of a computer screen. Daylight has also been shown to improve eye health in children and elderly adults.

2. Good for Your Mood and Self Esteem

Sunlight also helps keep your serotonin levels up. This helps raise your energy and keeps your mood calm, positive, and focused. As little as 5 minutes of outdoor activity can also help improve your self-esteem. The more greenery or water is nearby, the greater the effect. Relaxed activities like a walk, bike ride, or work in a garden are great examples.

3. Good for Concentration and Problem Solving

Studies show that time spent in green, outdoor spaces help improve mental concentration. In one study, kids with ADHD were able to concentrate better on a task after a walk in the park than those who stayed indoors or completed the same activities in an urban setting. A study published in the Journal of Experimental Psychology found that walking outside also increases the level of productivity, as well as creativity.

4. Good for Sleep

Early morning sunlight has shown to help people get to sleep at night. Cells in your eyes need enough light to get your body's internal clock working right. Experts say 30 minutes before noon show positive benefits, but the earlier the better.

5. Good for your Immune System!

Sunlight naturally provides Vitamin D to the body, which benefits the bones, blood cells and immune system. It also helps your body absorb more of certain minerals, like calcium and phosphorus. In the summer, just getting sun for 5 to 15 minutes, 2-3 times a week, provides enough Vitamin D for these positive effects. Plants help too! They release organic compounds called phytoncides into the air that may boost the immune system according to scientific study.

It's always a good idea to protect your eyes and skin from harmful UV rays when in direct sunlight. Remember to wear sunglasses, a hat and sunscreen when spending more than 15 minutes outdoors.

“Kind words can be short and easy to speak, but their echoes are truly endless.” – Mother Teresa

PEACH ROOIBOS SUMMER PUNCH

Summer is knocking at your door! Embrace the sun with this refreshing and sweet punch, enriched with Ganoderma lucidum. Mix a strong brew of GanoCafé Rooibos Tea with delicious peaches, lemon and mint. It's the perfect cocktail for a warm summer afternoon relaxing outside, with or without the vodka. Just brew, mix, chill and enjoy!

Ingredients:

- 2 sachets GanoCafé Rooibos Tea
- 16 oz cold water
- 16 oz peach juice
- 1 lemon
- 2 peaches
- handful fresh mint leaves
- 3-4 oz vodka, optional

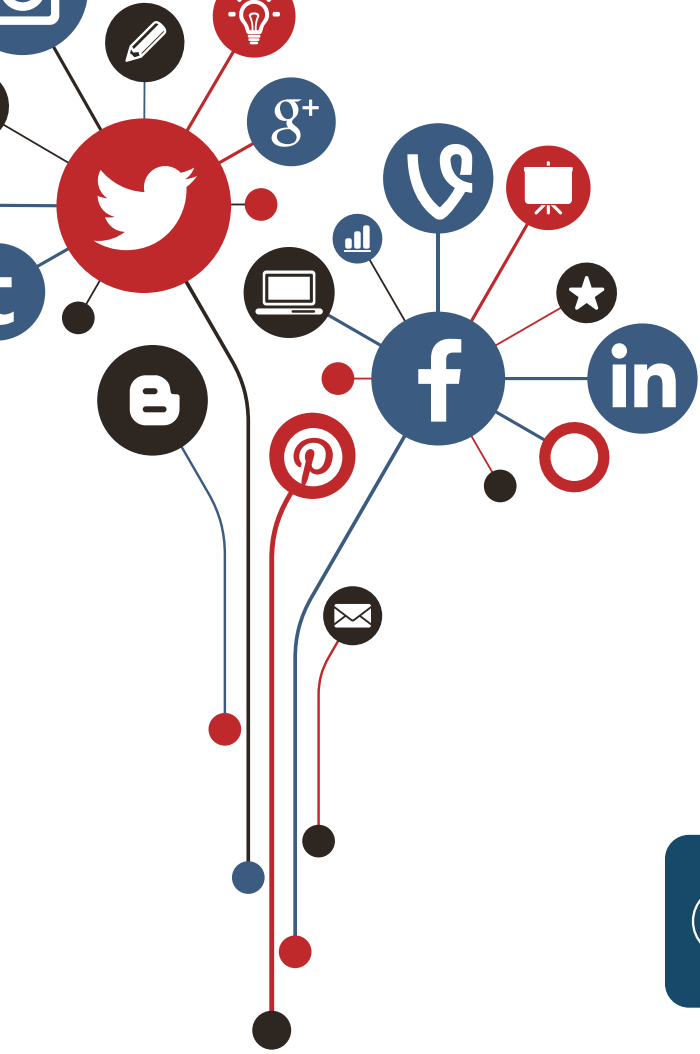

Directions:

1. Place the tea bags in a jar of cool water and set in direct sunlight for 1-2 hours. Alternatively, place GanoCafé Rooibos Tea bags in hot water and steep 5 minutes. Let cool.
2. When the tea is ready, thinly slice the lemon and peaches.
3. Combine all the ingredients in a large jug and stir well.
4. Serve over ice.

NUTRITIONAL FACT:

Peaches are a great source of antioxidants. Peach skin and flesh are rich in carotenoids and caffeic acid — two types of antioxidants found to have excellent health benefits for the body. They are also full of polyphenols, a group of powerful antioxidants that supports the immune system.

LEADERSHIP SPOTLIGHT BLANCA SOLORIO

PREMIER DIAMOND

Blanca Solorio is one of our two newest Premier Diamonds at Gano Excel USA. Originally from Mexico, she currently resides in the city of Visalia, California with her husband and three children. She loves that Gano Excel allows her to work on her own schedule and that she has the power to make her weekly check what she wants it to be. She has visualized her rank advancement for some time and finally committed to making it happen for herself. She had already made a plan on how to do it; now was the time to put that plan into action. She met with her team to discuss her plan, which involved helping several others in her organization to advance in rank as well. Working together, everyone was able to achieve what they wanted. The plan was a success thanks to teamwork, strategy and Blanca's personal commitment to see it through.

Blanca saw from the beginning the opportunity for a great business because of the excellent products that Gano Excel offers. She first fell in love with the great taste of GanoCafé coffee. It was rich and delicious. She never wanted to go back to her old coffee, and so she knew immediately she would become a loyal customer. When she realized that owning a Gano Excel business meant sharing this delicious coffee with others, she knew it was the opportunity she was looking for. It was simple, easy and duplicable. She knew that when others tasted the great product that they would naturally want to share it as well. Although completely new to network marketing, she took the leap from being an employee to an entrepreneur. Since then, she's enjoyed the freedom that comes from running your own business.

With that freedom comes a responsibility to yourself. Blanca maintains that discipline and commitment are the keys to running a successful home-based business. She makes it a habit to create a list of the five most important tasks to complete the following day. She creates a schedule for herself and sticks to it. "You must make the most of the time you have and value it as a treasure," Blanca said. She encourages her team to use their time checking in on team members and prospects, and presenting the Gano Excel Opportunity. She also believes in the value of training. The more training that an Affiliate receives, the better the results she can expect from him or her. By uniting her faith with training and action, she has seen success in her business. When she's feeling low on inspiration, she turns to her mother who is a shining example of hard work and positivity. "She is always ready to support me with good advice and encouragement," Blanca said.

Taking that positivity into situations like the current pandemic can be a challenge, but Blanca sees it as an opportunity to grow. She sees opportunities to explore new ways of running her business that will take it "to the next level." Since minimizing the amount of traveling she does for work, she has more time and saves money. Although she already utilized social media and teleconferencing tools with her team, she is now doing more of her business virtually than ever before. Video calls, including a weekly Virtual Leadership Meeting, allow her to reach people all over the country, and even internationally. Staying busy keeps her motivated and her example motivates her team to do the same. She envisions that her team will continue to expand its network and in doing so see significant growth before the end of the year.

She is on the lookout for future leaders that want to be a part of this exciting growth. What she looks for are interest and action. "Everything is possible when there is a commitment," she said. "Gano Excel has already made its commitment to us; now we must also make a commitment to our own success with Gano Excel."

ERIK SANCHEZ

CLARK, NJ

Erik Sanchez is a rising star in Gano Excel's New Jersey market. He enrolled as an Affiliate in March of 2019, after being introduced to the Gano Excel products and opportunity by a family member. His wife, a nutrition coach, had learned about the benefits of Ganoderma lucidum, and they were delighted to find products that combined the powerful herb with everyday products and also tasted great. The two of them were already running a health company to help people live better lifestyles. Erik quickly became a product of the product and found it easy and natural to recommend it to his clients. He began hearing about great improvements in health from those he had recommended the product. After learning more about the company, he decided to start his own Gano Excel business.

Erik was excited about the prospect of joining Gano Excel while it continues to expand into new markets across the United States. He is able to be a part of the emerging market in the New Jersey area. He says it all comes back to a great product that sells itself. Although the financial opportunity is ripe, it comes back to feeling he is making a difference using a product he believes in. "The product works and my wife and I are able to help people in the way we set out to do," he says.

Erik says that when it comes to training his team, simplicity is key. In order for others to duplicate the business, it cannot be overly complicated. He focuses on the simplicity of sharing the product and answers questions about the company. He also takes time to learn more from his own Upline. He says that being a leader takes a good learner. You must be willing to ask questions and grow in order to pass that knowledge and experience on to others. The greatest lesson he has learned from his own mentor is to have faith in others and be patient. Erik says that if it weren't for the faith and patience of his mentor, he and his wife would not be where they are today. Believing in the potential that others have and committing to support them until they achieve it is one of the greatest opportunities Erik has come to know.

Erik leads Virtual Leadership Meetings during the week using Zoom. The meetings give Affiliates the opportunity to connect with each other and practice speaking in front of others, which reduces fear and replaces it with self confidence. Erik has seen his own confidence improve. "You have to be able to talk to people in this business," Erik says. "These meetings have allowed the teams to practice doing that in a supportive environment." He says it has been great to have a platform that reaches Affiliates on a national level and looks forward to the growth that will come from that exposure.

His advice to Affiliates who are new to working from home includes setting a dedicated work space, a schedule to provide the structure and focus they need. He also encourages Affiliates to take advantage of the more relaxed atmosphere to connect with others with less stress. Expressing yourself comes more easily when you are relaxed, so being at home is a great setting to connect in a meaningful way. In addition to hitting Gold, Erik says that his goal this year is to connect with one new person every day with whom he can recommend Gano Excel products. From there, he says, the sky's the limit.

LIVING UP TO OUR FULL POTENTIAL

At Gano Excel, we love to watch our Affiliates reach new milestones, grow their businesses and achieve the success that catapults them from one rank to the next. Seeing such transformation invigorates everyone around them. It shows that change is possible and paints an excellent picture of what a revitalized life can look like.

We recognize these wonderful Affiliates for their achievements, focus and dedication is a privilege for us. We know that when we focus on the positive and rewarding aspects of our business, we are working together as a team for the company and for each person's "why."

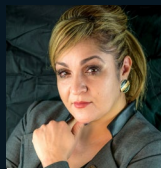

Please help us express our gratitude for their hard work!
