CEO MESSAGE

As we nestle into the heart of the autumn season it is a perfect time to remind yourself about the joy of sharing. Joy is a hallmark of an energetic entrepreneur. The positive energy of a joyful person is palpable. Its presence creates an environment ready to actualize, socialize, harmonize and revitalize. So, let's get back to the heart of sharing. What about it creates that joyful energy that is essential to a growing business?

When you SHARE a delicious cup of GanoCafé coffee, or a Go! Gano smart beverage with someone, you are doing more than simply quenching someone's thirst. Each sip is delivering wholesome nutrients that nourish the body. Introducing someone to Gano Excel could have a profound impact on their wellbeing and lifestyle. The act of sharing calls to one's compassion for others. What better time to focus on this simple motivation than the holiday season that is at our doorstep once again.

The holidays can be a busy time of year, even when it's spent at home with family. However, if you find yourself stressing about the perfect holiday dinner or festivities, come back to the heart of sharing. It could be that stress comes when our focus is on ourselves. When we think about how we can help others it can be an uplifting time instead. Not only does sharing satisfy a material need for enriched products that are great for your health, it energizes both people to do more for others. That spirit of compassion invigorates our mission to spread health and wealth throughout the USA, and throughout the world.

Consider what you can do to focus on the heart of sharing this month. Our new Go! Gano products make an excellent gift for someone looking for a revitalizing drink they can enjoy all day long. You likely know someone who could benefit from the opportunity to make some extra cash this year. Consider sharing about Gano Excel through an Opportunity Presentation, a 1-on-1, or gifting an Evolution Pack. I look forward to the impact you will have as you explore the many ways there are to SHARE.

Sincerely,

Mr. Ooi Chin Aik,
Chief Executive Officer, Gano Excel | North America

CURATIO CEO LYNDA BROWN-GANZERT PIONEERS SOCIAL HEALTHAPP

Lynda Brown-Ganzert loves to connect people with what they need. It's her way of revitalizing her world and making it a better place. It is the core of her entrepreneurial spirit, and it has been with her since she was a young teenager. Her father relocated for work to a remote area of Canada. Her family moved from Vancouver to a small fishing and logging village off the Pacific coast. She had to leave her dance studio and friends behind. But then Lynda had an idea: why not bring the joy of dance lessons to her new town? At age 14, she opened a school, taught classes, held recitals, managed administrative tasks and swept her own floors. Her hard work paid off. Her studio was making a profit within the first year!

Fast forward to adulthood when Lynda and her husband decided to expand their family and welcome a second baby into the world. Unfortunately, her second pregnancy came with some serious complications and she found herself struggling with being a patient for the first time in her life. She felt alone in her experience and began to think, "It shouldn't be like this." She wondered if others felt the same way. The more she reached out to others, the more she realized how common those feelings of isolation were with other patients. She became determined that there must be a way to connect patients with the support they need.

Lynda's work experience was in digital solutions. She was an award-winning leader in digital media and entrepreneurship! So, she decided to use her talents to invent a way for patients to connect digitally with each other in a new health-focused social network. In her research she found that peer-based support had a positive impact on patient outcomes. So, she went to work developing a private social network that would meet this need. She called it Curatio, which means "healing circle." Its mission is simple: no patient alone.

Lynda soon learned that there are an estimated four billion people living with chronic disease challenges around the world. These people had the ability to care for themselves, but were challenged to stay motivated. They needed the encouragement of peers going through similar experiences. In order to reach this $5.9 billion market, Lynda decided to license her Curatio software to healthcare companies that could make the new "social health prescription" available to their members. She added personalized support, education, disease management tools and patient privacy protections to make it safe and easy for patients to use. Now, Curatio has users in more than 85 countries and five languages.

Curatio has had success with its patient-centric model of care. A recent clinical study of patients using Curatio that 80% of users showed an increased interest in self-management, 75% showed improved health behaviors, and 71% showed improved social integration. "That's when the lightbulb really turns on and you realize you're making a valuable difference to actual health outcomes, their ability to self manage, adhere to a care plan and their ability to navigate," Brown-Ganzert says. "For me, at the heart of it, it's always been about helping solve the problems that are right in front of me, where I can make the contribution, and in a small way, change the world."

It also has been a practical tool while dealing with the isolation patients have felt during the COVID-19 pandemic. Health care providers are looking for virtual solutions that allow patients to self-manage from home. Lynda's health-focused social network has proved to be a valuable tool already designed with that scenario in mind.

It's amazing what a difference someone can make with the power of an entrepreneurial mindset. Gano Excel Affiliates are helping to revitalize the world through the power of Ganoderma, and like Curatio, they aren't doing it alone. Network marketing is a great way to get support from peers in the business who have gone through the same experience of building a successful business. They know the work and the motivation that it takes and can be a tremendous encouragement when challenges arise. It takes a spirit that says, "I can do this," and the energy to make it happen.

100+ GCV

VOLUME ORDER
REBATE

One of the reasons a Gano Excel business is the right opportunity is that its Ganoderma-enriched products are fast moving consumer goods. That means that people consume products like coffee, toothpaste and supplements every day and are ready to purchase more products on a regular basis. For example, Americans drink an estimated 400 million cups of coffee every day. That is good news for your business!

Maintaining an accessible supply of the products your customers love and crave is essential. As your business grows, you will begin to sample and retail more and more product to prospects and customers. Enter the Volume Order Rebate! Large volume orders can generate cash back for you through this valuable way to earn with Gano Excel.

Here's how it works. Anytime you place personal orders exceeding 100 CV (125 PV), your personal volume that exceeds 100 CV will be added to your GCV for your weekly commissions payout! You must already qualify with the minimum 500 GCV before your Volume Order Rebate CV is added. As long as you qualify, you will receive the Volume Order Rebate as a cash-back reward for building your business with Gano Excel!

Here's just a couple of things to note. Personal orders that qualify for the Volume Order Rebate exclude ESP purchases. Also, if you are not eligible for Binary Commissions during the week you had personal volume in excess of 100 CV, it will be added to your banked volume and carried over to subsequent weeks as if it were normal GCV.

With the Volume Order Rebate as a part of your Wealth Plan, you can place larger orders to support your growing business with the joy of knowing there is an extra reward coming your way. It's one more reason to smile, and one more reason to SHARE!

HEALTHY
TO HYDRATE

REVITALIZE

You've heard before that drinking plenty of water has numerous benefits to a healthy body, but did you know one of them is a well-functioning immune system? It's one of the most natural ways to help give your body a boost when invading microorganisms launch an attack on your precious abode. Here are four ways staying hydrated can help prevent getting sick this holiday season.

1. Keeps them out.

Water is used to build up frontline barriers to keep invaders out of the body in the first place. Healthy, hydrated skin keeps many infections from entering. Water also helps to create mucus membranes in the nose and throat that trap invaders before they have a chance to infiltrate any further.

2. Gobbles them up.

Water is essential for creating stomach acid to destroy ingested pathogens. The hydrochloric acid is built on a foundation of water, carbon dioxide and chloride, an important electrolyte. Stomach acid is the body's primary disinfectant and destroys harmful bacteria and viruses that are ingested. Keeping the body supplied with the proper amount of stomach acid will help it to kill more of these pathogens before they reach the intestines.

3. Washes them away.

Water is used to wash toxins out of your system. The body uses water to form lymph that transports bacteria and other pathogens out of the bloodstream to keep them from infecting healthy cells. These invaders flow through your lymph nodes where powerful immune cells can destroy them. Your kidneys also use water to filter toxins out of the bloodstream and keep a balance of electrolyte concentration, pH level and other important functions.

4. Fuels your body to fight.

Perhaps most importantly, water is essential for providing oxygen and nutrients to all your cells! Staying hydrated provides enough oxygen to keep cells performing at full capacity. That means a stronger immune system! It also helps to transport all of the nutrients harvested by the intestines to your heart, brain, lungs, bones, and all of your other organs. Simply put, hydration keeps you working, living and playing at your best.

New Go! Gano smart beverages use 100% water-soluble Ganoderma lucidum extract to help you stay hydrated throughout your day! Go! Gano Refresh is specially formulated with electrolytes and all-natural bioactives that replenish your system after working hard. That means more of the body-boosting water + nutrients that keep cells performing at their best.

“Find joy in everything you choose to do. Every job, relationship, home... it's your responsibility to love it, or change it.” – Chuck Palahniuk

CITRUS CRANBERRY SAUCE WITH GO! GANO REFRESH

With the holidays coming soon you may find yourself spending more time on your feet. Whether shopping for the perfect gift or preparing the perfect feast, this Thanksgiving could be quite the marathon. Need a boost of stamina that could only come from the best natural ingredients you can find? Go! Gano Refresh enriches a delicious citrus cranberry sauce with the power of Ganoderma, Cordyceps and more!

Ingredients:

- 2 oranges
- ½ cup water
- 1 sachet Go! Gano Refresh
- ¾ cup plus 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 (12 oz) bag fresh or frozen cranberries (do not use dried)
- Pinch salt

Directions:

1. Zest one orange to get about 2 teaspoons of zest and set aside. Juice both oranges to create ½ cup of orange juice. Discard any extra.
2. Add the fresh orange juice and water to a medium saucepan. Stir in Go! Gano Refresh. Add the sugar and cook over high heat until boiling.
3. Add the cranberries, orange zest and pinch of salt and return to a boil.
4. Reduce the heat to medium and continue boiling gently for 10 minutes. Most of the cranberries should have burst open.
5. Turn off the heat and transfer your cranberry sauce to a serving bowl. Cover and refrigerate until chilled.

NUTRITIONAL FACT:

Did you know that cranberries are 90% water? They are also good for your heart! Research published in Clinical Nutrition this year indicated that cranberries have some positive effects on cardiovascular health. Studies show that consuming cranberry can help reduce systolic blood pressure and body mass index. That's two more reasons to smile!

LEADERSHIP SPOTLIGHT NORBERTO MONTERO

DIAMOND

Norberto Montero is one of Gano Excel's newest Diamonds! He advanced in rank this summer, proving the value of a home-based Ganoderma lucidum business. While brick-and-mortar businesses across California and the nation were faced with shutdowns, Norberto's Gano Excel business was thriving. Working with his team and a persistent positive attitude allowed Norberto to accomplish his dream of becoming a Diamond. He hopes that his example will lead more people to rise up and achieve their dreams with Gano Excel as well.

Originally from Mexico, Norberto currently lives in Sacramento with his wife of 19 years, Executive Diamond Jersis Hernandez, and their five children. The couple learned about Gano Excel through Norberto's brother Sergio Montero, who invited them to a simple meeting over coffee. They didn't realize at the time that the delicious coffee they were enjoying was GanoCafé, enriched with the powerful herbal mushroom Ganoderma lucidum. However, Norberto knew it was something special when Sergio began to describe the ways the enriched coffee made him feel. His body felt better supported by the hundreds of antioxidants and other nutrients that the coffee provided.

Norberto felt excited listening to his brother talk about the difference GanoCafé was making in his life. Together, he and Jersis decided to bring Ganoderma into their life to see if they would have similar results. Norberto took the Ganoderma daily supplement along with enjoying enriched coffee and tea. He says he began to feel a difference after just two days. It was then that his wife began talking to him about starting a Gano Excel business. They could share the amazing products that Norberto had benefited from while also making additional income for their family. Norberto agreed and the rest is history.

Norberto has a full-time job working in construction, but that doesn't stop him from pursuing his dream of being his own boss. With his Gano Excel business, he can set his own hours to work when he wants and how much he wants. And he couldn't think of a better person to work with than Jersis. Not only is she the love of his life, but she is an incredible leader. He describes her as energetic, focused and not afraid to take a risk. "We support each other 100% and it is so great to have that partnership when you are branching out and trying something new," Norberto says.

As his mentor in the business, Jersis has shared leadership skills she has learned such as effective communication, and how to empower others to succeed. Norberto has found these incredibly useful in duplicating his team and building a strong organization. He looks for future leaders that take initiative. "Young leaders must act with independence, because being your own boss takes a personal level of motivation and commitment." With this quality, he knows he can provide the training and support the Affiliate needs to succeed.

Norberto has a dream to reach two days in his life, the one when he can call Gano Excel his full-time passion, and the one when he calls retirement his full-time pleasure. He has faith that he will reach both. With the income that he has made from his Gano Excel business, even as a part-time interest, he has been able to pay down his debts, save money for the future and even splurge on a few family vacations. He had the pleasure of taking his family to Hawaii with Gano Excel two years ago - the first vacation he has ever taken in his life! It was an incredible trip. The time with his family was such a blessing. Now, he has won the trip to Malaysia through the Let's GO! Promotion and he is excited for the opportunity to travel again. As his business continues to grow, Norberto looks forward to spending more time with his family. He loves to ride bikes with them around the neighborhood and watch his youngest daughter ride her horse. He loves the life and the memories that he is making thanks to the amazing opportunity with Gano Excel.

IVY JEFFERSON

COMPTON, CA

Ivy Jefferson feels completely at home with Gano Excel. She started her business just a year ago and hasn't looked back for a second. She describes herself as someone who has always been interested in healthy living. As such, she was familiar with the health benefits of Ganoderma, and she loved coffee. The idea of an enriched, healthy coffee product that she could drink every day was one that made complete sense. But for Ivy, it came down to taste.

"I wanted to love it. I knew if I loved it, I could share it."

She tasted GanoCafé and not only did she love the delicious flavor, she loved how it made her feel. She started to feel a natural, calm energy that was unlike other coffee products. Her body felt aligned and balanced. She felt good. This was more than enough for Ivy to feel like sharing the product with anyone and everyone. And that's when something even more motivating happened. The more she shared, the more she heard from her friends and neighbors about what Ganoderma was doing for them. It was a huge blessing to feel a part of uplifting someone's life. Ivy knew she had made the right choice.

Ivy is thankful to James Wiggins, Gold, for introducing her to Gano Excel. He has been a mentor to her from the beginning, teaching her about the "power of two." The concept is to duplicate your business simply by focusing on bringing two people to your organization, and then helping each one to bring two of their own. "When you realize we have a product this good, your first instinct is to sell, sell, sell," Ivy says. "But there is power in sharing with just two people that you know can benefit from the product and teaching them to do the same."

She is confident that the market has plenty of potential for her business to grow. After becoming a product of the product herself, she knows firsthand about Ganoderma's benefits to the body. Effects such as supporting the immune system and detoxifying the body are important to people everywhere. People want to put more good into their body and that is something that Gano Excel delivers with all of its products. Connecting the two together is what makes sharing so meaningful and fun.

At the age of 59, Ivy is able to live her retired life with gusto. She is independent, active and happy. The money she makes from her Gano Excel business enhances her lifestyle and allows her to be more generous within her community. She contributes to a local scholarship program that provides a path to higher education for young scholars who need help paying for college. It is a goal she has had for her business from the start. "It's important to have these goals for yourself," she says. "You have this business for you, so use it to accomplish what you want in your life." Her goal is to become a Diamond with Gano Excel and make a lasting impact on her community thanks to the health and wealth she shares through Gano Excel.

She is thankful for her team and everything Gano Excel provides to empower her to succeed. She encourages her team to use the Back Office, take advantage of Reward Points to receive free products, and to use the tools that the company creates that make it easier to share. She also encourages them to stay connected and communicate with customers, prospects and each other. Most importantly she encourages each one to be products of the product. "You have to be sincere in loving what you do," Ivy says. "I know that makes all the difference for me."
